Voters Have Two Party Trustee Choice Tuesday—Fire Truck Issue

Republican candidates are Albert Root and Samuel LaGrange—Dems enter Russell Allen and William Cooper—Vote on appropriation for new fire truck.

Tuesday, March 19 is village election day! Voting will be from 1 to 6 p. m.

The voters of Addison will go to the polls to vote for two trustees and taxpayers will be eligible to vote as to whether the village should purchase a new hose truck and pumper at a cost not to exceed $4,500.

At the Republican caucus the names of Samuel LaGrange and Albert Root were presented in nomination to represent the GOP. There was a question of endorsing one of the Democratic candidates, but it was voted that the Republicans should present a strictly Republican ticket.

The Democrats did not hold a caucus the night set aside by them for this caucus. During the week following however, the names of Russell Allen, present incumbent and William Cooper, former Mayor were presented to the people as the nominees of the Dmocratic party.

Mr. Allen's term expires this year. The second trustee is to be elected in place of th late Fred G. Clark, whose term would have expired this month.

One of the big issues of the voting this year, and not along party lines, will be as to whether the village should purchase a fire truck. Plans and specifications have been secured for a pumper and hose cart to cost $3,500 and of this sum $500 will be allowed for the present pumper, which firemen contend cannot be repaired short of $800.

On this proposition, which will [illegible]osition Number 1, only tax[illegible]ted on the last assessment roll are eligible to vote. The machine will be so fixed that only those people can vote, according to village officials charged with handling this election.

For those who do not know whether they are eligible or not and who might like to vote, the assessment roll is on file in the office of Village Clerk Wilfred Miller in the Hubbs Electric Store.

In cases where the property is listed jointly, both co-owners may vote, where the property is listed in one name and owned by another only the persons whose name is listed will be eligible to vote.

To prevent confusion and embarrassment at the polls, taxpayers are asked to check these facts before going to the polls on Tuesday, March 19 from 1 to 6 o'clock.

WILD DUCKS HERE

Spring must be in the air, even though we do not see it. A group of wild ducks lighted on Tuscarora Creek Tuesday enroute north for their summer haunts. It is usually hard to fool the birds so that we can look for warm weather anytime.

Ann Morris Takes Icy Bath

Little Ann Morris knows what it is to go winter bathing in the Tuscarora Creek, for she tried it Monday. No, she did not try it on purpose, but was sliding down a hill leading to the creek in the rear of the schoolhouse. She was with several other companions and they were having a great time enjoying the sliding.

Suddenly, Ann slid too far and went out into the creek on the ice and the ice broke, dumping her into the freezing water. Her young companions were alarmed, Catherine Gangeme went to the rescue of her companion and pulled Ann from the creek where Ann was in to her waist holding onto the ice.

The youngsters still get a thrill when they think of the close call Ann had and all have made a vow, not to go sliding on the creek wall again.

Vivian Jacobson Wins Legion Oratorical Contest in AHS

Three girls speak on various phases of the Constitution—Awards made by Williams-Greengrass Post—Winner to speak at county meet here in April judged the winner of the American Legion scholastic speaking contest held in Addison High School Friday afternoon under the auspices of Williams-Greengrass Post, American Legion. She will represent Addison Post and High School at the Steuben County contest to be held here April 4. Miss Jacobson spoke on "The Guarantees of Liberty in the Constitution".

Other speakers were Frances Colburn and Gloria Vona. The program opened with the singing of the "Alma Mater" led by Miss Dorothy Andrews, cadet teacher of Syracuse University. She also led in the singing of "Over the Rainbow" and "Wishing". Principal Irving R. Gladstone presented John W. Russ, local Legion commander.

Mr. Russ stated the purpose of the contest is to create an interest in and respect for the basic principles of our government. The winner of the oratorical contest is eligible to enter the county contest, the winner of that being eligible for the sectional contest in Rochester in which ten counties will participate. The state winner will receive a $4,000 college scholarship offered by Eddie Cantor.

The judges for the contest were Dr. Amos Stiker, chairman, Dr. Horace Auringer and Andrew Knebel, member of the local Post. The Williams-Greengrass Post offered prizes of $3, $2 and $1 to the contestants.

The first speaker was Frances Colburn who spoke on "The Personalities of the Constitutional Convention". She spoke principally of the six men who most influenced the Constitutional Convention, Madison, Franklin, Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson and John Marshall. Madison planned the three departments of government as the legislative, executive and judicial, Jefferson wanted the Bill of Rights and Chief Justice John Marshall interpreted and upheld the Constitution in all decisions. Madison was the thinker, Franklin the peacemaker, Washington was for justice and honor, Hamilton's part was to preserve the Constitution, Jefferson was for the common causes and Marshall gave the proper interpreattions.

Gloria Vona spoke on "The Treaty-making Phases of the Constitution". She stated that the President has the right to make treaties, but two-thirds of the Senate must agree, thus giving the power to more than one man. If Congress refuses to sanction the treaty anything the President may do or say does not matter. She explained the Webster-Ashburton treaty between the United States and Canada and the Oregon treaty affecting the Pacific Northwest. Miss Vona explained the mechanics of treaty-making and spoke of American diplomacy as being honest and frank owing to the number who know the details as against European treaties about which only a few know.

Miss Jacobson spoke of the liberties guaranteed under the Constitution such as freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion, the protection against unlawful search and seizure, and the fact that no person may be deprived of life, [illegible] or property without due [illegible] law. She closed by [illegible] would do well to guard [illegible] that have been handed [illegible] Dr. Stiker [illegible] awards and outlined the methods used in judging. He said appearance, poise, convincing arguments, organization of material and other points counted.

Finnerty Writes For National FFA Magazine

Much has been done in Addison with the sports program in the Future Farmer activities under the direction of Frank B. Finnerty, agriculture teacher here. In addition to the sports program, begun in school, there has been great interest on the part of a group of out-of-school young farmers who maintain an interest in sports and also in new developments in agriculture. This group is likewise being served by the high school agriculture department.

In keeping with the development of a sports program in high school, Mr. Finnerty was asked to prepare an article for the "Agricultural Education Magazine" national publication of the Future Farmer organization. The title of his published article was "Some Do's and Don'ts for Future Farmer Sports Programs".

In the article Mr. Finnerty suggests a sports program for Future Farmer boys as an interest focal point outside of club activities. This program is managed by a Future Farmer committee and consists of basketball, softball, track, kite flying, model plane racing, quoits, in fact anything that the boys want to do, including milk testing and poultry culling.

Mr. Finnerty suggests the sport that will include the greatest number of boys with rules for a standard game being stretched to permit a larger than prescribed team and little equipment. Methods of utilizing larger number of boys in standard sports are suggested. Simplicity in the sports and rules are recommended. He points out that agriculture teachers teaching sports could not strive for winning teams but for the building of character. Too much emphasis on sports is much worse than too little, Mr. Finnerty points out but there is an in-between path that will give satisfaction.

PRESSURE GROUP INFLUENCE

When is the Legislature of the State of New York going to get the courage and common sense to face the facts about our educational system? This is a question which every parent and every taxpayers should carefully ponder, for every parent should be interested in the educational advantages of his children and every taxpayer should wish to see that educational tax dollars be spent not only honestly, but efficiently.

In many a city and many centralized schools there is a tendency to spend money profligately, simply because our state educational funds are allotted under a formula which not merely discourages thrift, but in fact makes the practice of economy look silly. Under the formula some centralized schools are said to have difficulty figuring out ways to spend the state funds handed them by a too generous state, while other high schools serving their communities as well are handicapped for lack of funds which must be made up by excessive local taxation.

It is high time for a leveling off of educational needs and educational excesses. Scattered here and there in our educational system are theories and abuses which must be corrected when we return to teaching some of the fundamentals which too frequently are all but forgotten.

In a statement at Albany February 5 Dr. Tildsley said that some 20 per cent of the children admitted to New York City high schools are not able to read well enough to use the necessary text books. It is to be hoped this practice is not so great up-state as in the city, but the tendency today is to let [illegible] skim along from grade to grade and into high school even though they do not earn p[illegible]

This pr[illegible]ded on the grounds that the law re[illegible]p attend school; that the[illegible] obtain jobs; they are held to be bette[illegible] than in idleness. Then there is the psy[illegible]al viewpoint expressing the thought [illegible]hould be admitted to high school whether [illegible]ass or not "in order that the pupils will not [illegible]ade ashamed of themselves as inferior". [illegible]ey are called "civic pupils", and are marked on "effort and not ability".

Sources friendly to education consider this practice unfair to normal children. Certainly it is not only an unfair but positively a dishonest treatment of employers for a high school to graduate illiterate pupils. It is dishonest because an employer has reason to believe that a high school graduate has intelligence enough to learn how to do the job for which he is hired. When they do not he is let down and has invested all for nothing the time and money always expended in developing an employee. it is unfair to the graduate who really earns his diploma, because he is rated by the failure of the one graduated by "effort" who proves a failure.

What so many educators today do not seem to realize is that almost no one is ever worth his salt who isn't well grounded in the fundamentals. Reading, writing and arithmetic are still fundamentals, whether or not educators dispute the fact and slide children into high school who have not mastered them. Probably this statement would be disputed by educators in New York City where the unwieldy, most expensive educational system in the world makes light of reading, while priding itself on offering courses in dancing. But up-state there should be a few thinking persons who would disagree.

Dr. Raynor, principal of Alexander High School, said in a public address that New York schools were "producing criminals, loafers and social discontents". That all children are not competent to receive high school education, that of 413 pupils admitted to his school one month, only 169 passed the regents test in elementary arithmetic, only 48 in the elementary English test. Dr. Raynor said further that "promotion is by the calendar, rather than by honest examination . . . dumping into the high schools tens of thousands destined to dismal failure and to add to the tax burden".

A business research organization says of present day education, "We have put flunking and failure on a pedestal and rate them as part of democracy . . . training all these youths to believe that failure is normal and not to be looked down upon, we are destroying the value of real estate and crowding taxpayers to the wall."

February 7, five days before the state budget hearing, the New York World-Telegram printed the following letter:

"One day last week a 7-year-old boy brought home from public school a paper which he asked his father to sign. Questioning revealed the fact that the teacher had impressed upon him and his schoolmates that the school would be closed if their parents did not sign the papers.

"The 'paper' was a request to the State Legislature to restore full state aid to the schools.

"The little lad's father, being a man of intelligence, who knows that the most crying need today is economy in governmental expenditures and that state aid to education has increased more than 500 per cent in the last 20 years, would not sign the paper.

"The 7-year-old was put out and said that his class wouldn't get the banner.

"I hope the legislators at Albany are aware of the propaganda that is being used to stir up sentiment against much-needed economy".

Teachers who sent pupils home with this "paper" were using tax-paid time to influence the state Legislature. Many other instances could be cited where tax paid time has been used to develop pressure on the Legislature to influence votes in that body.

Why do these things happen in a state whose taxpayers spend more for education than any other? Why do the taxpayers put up with these things? Because the educational machine is so strongly organized from Department of Education officials right down through, they can and do bring great pressure on the Legislature and on school boards. It is high time all citizens honestly interested in real, not fanciful education, insist that legislators go to Albany who will not be influenced by pressure groups.

EVEN-HANDED (?) JUSTICE

Several months ago a newspaper columnist made the statement that our then Attorney General Murphy was to be "kicked upstairs" to the Supreme Court because he was altogether too zealous in prosecuting federal cases. Altogether too many loyal Democrats were having the heat turned on their official acts, so much so it was becoming embarrassing to the Administration. Certain activities of the New Dealers were being given too close scrutiny.

Recent events point to substantiation of this viewpoint:

F.B.I. men worked nearly 18 months gathering evidence on the activity of a group in recruiting 200 soldiers for the Spanish Republican Army in Detroit. Attorney General Murphy was interested in the prosecution of this case. February 6 a United Press dispatch from Detroit said that federal agents had arrested eleven persons in that city accused of recruiting. District Attorney Lehr said that "Methods used by the recruiting group were as workmanlike as those of the United States Army Recruiting Agency". Some of them were said to be clearly communists or communist sympathizers, one having been communist candidate for governor of Michigan.

Then suddenly something happened. An Associated Press dispatch appeared February 16 in many newspapers which read that Attorney General Jackson had sent an aide to Detroit to secure dismissal of indictments against persons accused of recruiting soldiers for the Republican Army. This was one of the last official acts of Murphy before he mounted the bench. Murphy having ordered them before the grand jury.

What was the reason for the dismissal of the indictments? Nothing was said about it, but the reason was the weakest as well as the most unfair ever put out by a high official. He said it was unfair to single out" one group of persons, adding: "These indictments present the dilemma of either discontinuing the cases or entering upon a vastly broader campaign of prosecution. Even-handed and impartial justice would not localize prosecutions of this character to Detroit nor confine them to only one side of the Spanish War itself".

Actually, what was the reason Jackson called off the government case? It is pretty generally known that the recruiting of troops in more than 50 countries to fight with the so-called "Loyalists" of Spain was engineered by the Communist International. Several thousand Americans were illegally enlisted. Mixed up with all this is the fact these recruits were furnished with American passports (contrary to law) and that many if not most of these passports were taken from recruits on reaching Spain and never seen again. It is likely that many an alien communist entered the U. S. on passports stolen from these Americans.

The whole affair has such a nasty aspect it should be overhauled by the Dies Committee. When has Washington had any conscience pricks about prosecuting anyone before? Under this administration the legal machinery of the government has gone out of its way to prosecute men in private industry, it has prosecuted little pants pressers. It has brought actions against employers for discharging an incompetent, disgruntled employee. Yet now it becomes the model of even-handed justice, refusing to prosecute one bunch of communist army recruiters because they were "localized".

Is that the real reason, or could it be some of our "pink" New Dealers in high places could have influenced the Attorney General to discontinue the action against their Red brothers?

"Democracy is waging a battle within itself against the forces of centralization which, in the name of efficiency or benevolence, are cutting the ground of government from under the citizens and placing it in the national capital."—George D. Aiken, Governor of Vermont.

No matter what color it is painted, a public debt is a debt, and it boils down to the fact that the people pay no matter what method the government takes to reduce it, whether by higher taxes, inflation, confiscation of property, cancellation or reduced rewards for labor.

Coach Carl Snavely, of Cornell's Big Red football team was a Capitol visitor early this week at a luncheon given by Representative Daniel A. Reed of Dunkirk, Cornell alumnus and former Cornell football coach. Present also were a few local Cornell alumni, four Members of Congress who were students at Ithaca and myself. At the conclusion of the lunch, Mr. Reed, now in his 65th year, took Coach Snavely out on the Capitol lawn and demonstrated how punts were made when he was in the game.

The result of the 1940 population census which is now in the making will give Congress many problems to think about and among them is the re-apportionment of Congressional districts. Already the House Committee on Census is studying the subject. An increase in the size of the House of Representatives beyond its present membership of 435 is not desirable, although the return of the census will undoubtedly show a substantial increase in population. Reduction in the number of House Members is politically impossible since no one will vote himself out of office. Last year I submitted a questionnaire on this matter to all the House membership and, of the replies received, the great majority agreed that numerically the House was too large and cumbersome for effective and efficient work but none said he would vote for a reduction. The only alternative is to retain its present size which would result in each Member representing a larger constituency. The population of our district, based on 1930 census, is approximately a quarter million people.

The name of the Order comes from the full name of the association, American-Hellenic Educational Progressive Association.

A sub-committee of which I am a member has been investigating the organization of the Navy Department and finds that the Department is now operating under a set-up adopted in 1842 with but few modifications. Yesterday a high naval officer was outspoken in his criticism of the organization, a rare occurrence since most of the officers feel that the system is all right. He said that we had successfully waged the other World War in spite of our naval set-up rather than because of it and that he dreaded to contemplate that the Navy will be called upon to wage another war under its present organization. Greater economy, greater efficiency is possible under a more modernized system, he said, predicting that declining appropriations for the Navy are in the offing since we cannot continue expenditures at the present rate of one billion dollars each year.

Dish For This Week

Homemakers who still have a good supply of apples will be interested in the following dessert suggested by the New York State College of Home Economics

Rice and Apple Pudding

1 cup of boiled rice
2 large apples
1-2 cup of stewed prunes, cut in small pieces
2-3 cup of brown sugar
2 tablespoons of butter
1-3 teaspoon of salt
1-2 teaspoon of vanilla
Buttered bread crumbs
1 cup of milk
1 egg

Combine the rice, the apples which have been cut in thin slices, the prunes, the sugar, the butter, the salt and the vanilla, and cover the mixture with buttered bread crumbs Beat the egg and add the milk to it. Pour this over the mixture in the dish, cover, and bake it in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) about 135 minutes. Serve the pudding hot with thin cream.

A suggested supper menu is vegetable plate with baked potato, buttered carrots, and scalloped cabbage; whole wheat bread and butter, rice and apple pudding, milk for the children and coffee, tea, or milk for the adults.

She then went to live in Hornell, remaining there until the death of her husband about three years ago. Since that time she has lived in the Colbert homestead on Front street. A brother, Dan J. Colbert, died there 14 months ago.

The body was brought to Addison by train Monday afternoon and taken to her former home. Funeral services were held in St. Catherine's Church Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Patrick Kelly, pastor, solemnizing a high mass of requiem. Burial was in St. Catherine's Cemetery.

"The Grapes of Wrath" Starts at Fox Saturday

Comedy is inherent in great drama.

This was the watchword of Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Grapes of Wrath", John Steinbeck's best-seller which John Ford directed and 20th Century Fox will present at the Fox Theatre on Saturday.

"Steinbeck, like many another genius, was unsparing in his use of wit", Associate Producer Nunnally Johnson, who prepared the screen play, pointed out. "He builds drama that bites at your heart by salting it with humor."

Steinbeck himself asked Johnson to see to it that the rugged good humor of the Joads was incorporated in the movie version of his work. "The Okies live in a rough world", explained Steinbeck. "They hide their circumstances behind a drawling wit. They are too tough and too courageous to wail over troubles."

The film version of "The Grapes of Wrath" has Henry Fonda as Tom Joad, Jane Darwell as Ma Joad, John Carradine as Casy, the preacher, Charley Grapewin as Grampa, Dorris Bowdon as Rosasharn, Russell Simpson as Pa Joad, O. Z. Whitehead as Al, John Qualen as Muley, Eddie Quillan as Connie and Zeffie Tilbury as Gramma.

Begin Farm Program Sign-up Monday

As many as three thousand Steuben County farmers are expected to enroll in the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1940 in the sign-up which begins in all parts of the county Monday morning, March 18.

Ten stations have been established with headquarters for the townships of Hornby, Caton, Corning, Erwin and Lindley at the Painted Post ...Hall; for Tuscarora, Rathbone, Add... and Woodhull at the Addison Town Hall.

Troupsburg and Jasper farmers will register at the Troupsburg ...ce, and Greenwood, West Union, Hartsville and Canisteo will make out papers at the Greenwood home of Frank Turner.

Dansville, Fremont and Hornell farmers register at the Fremont Town Hall, and Wayland and Cohocton go to the Atlanta Firehouse; Avoca, Howard and Wheeler at the Avoca Town Hall.

Papers for the farmers of Prattsburg and Pulteney will be made out at the Prattsburg Town Hall: Urbana, Wayne and Bradford at the home of H. M. DeGraw; and Bath, Thurston, Campbell and Cameron will register in the basement of the Bath Municipal Hall.

Order Limestone

At the same time orders will be made out for the grant of aid of limestone, by means of which cooperators in the program can purchase as much as twenty tons of limestone at a cash cost of fifty cents a ton, the balance to be paid for by the program.

Last fall Steuben County farmers ordered 25,000 tons of lime under this program, and orders in the spring pool are expected to approximate that amount.

A new feature of the program is an allotment of $30 for the reforestation of four acres of waste land. Seedling order blanks and complete information in regard to this practice have been placed in the hands of men who will conduct the sign-up.

Harde... Says Old ...ople Not De...d Homes

The following letter received from County Commissioner of Public Welfare E. Ray Hardenbrook is meant to correct an erroneous impression evidently gained by some readers relative to a statement of Assemblyman Stuart printed in these columns last week. The letter is self-explanatory. —Ed's note.

Dear Mr. Miller:

Under an Albany date line of March 6th you carry an item regarding a bill introduced by Mr. Stuart in which Mr. Stuart states that he believes his amendment to the Public Welfare Law should be passed so that old people would not be dep... of their homes while living ...d that "under the present law ... public welfare official is privileged to mortgage and sell the property of those receiving relief after a period of one year." He further states, "It is these people who have built homes and raised families and have been thrifty, who are the backbone of our nation. It does not seem just to me to turn them from their homes in their old age just because they find themselves destitute with nothing left but the house in which they live."

The Commissioners of Public Welfare at a recent conference opposed this bill. Certainly they are not in favor of taking a home away from a person after a period of one year, simply because they are destitute, but they do believe that this section should be continued in the law as there are frequently cases arising where a deed or mortgage has been given to the county as reimbursement and relief received, and where the applicants themselves request that the department dispose of their property while it is in good repair, and that they be allowed to live with their relatives rather than to continue keeping house alone. There are many other circumstances where this provision might be used not only to the advantage of the county, but to the persons who are receiving relief, themselves.

In Steuben County I can not recall, nor is there recorded, one single instance where we have ever disposed of a property except on request or by permission of the person who assigned the property, during his lifetime, except of course in cases where the ...erson has been declared inco... ...o handle this own affairs, ... stances it w...

Hymns for Motorists Recommended For Varying Speeds

Manitou Springs, Colo.,—The motorist with any "regard for his future abode" should sing hymns as the speedometer climbs upward, the Rev. L. C. Miller said in a safety sermon at the Mennonite church.

His selections at the different speeds:

"At 25 miles per hour, 'I'm But a Stranger Here, Heaven is My Home'; at 45 miles, 'Nearer My God to Thee'; at 55 miles, I'm Nearing the Port and Will Soon Be at Home' at 65 miles, 'When the Roll is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There'; at 75 miles, 'Lord, I'm Coming Home'."

Lcroy—A permanent historical society is being formed here to gather and preserve records of the community.

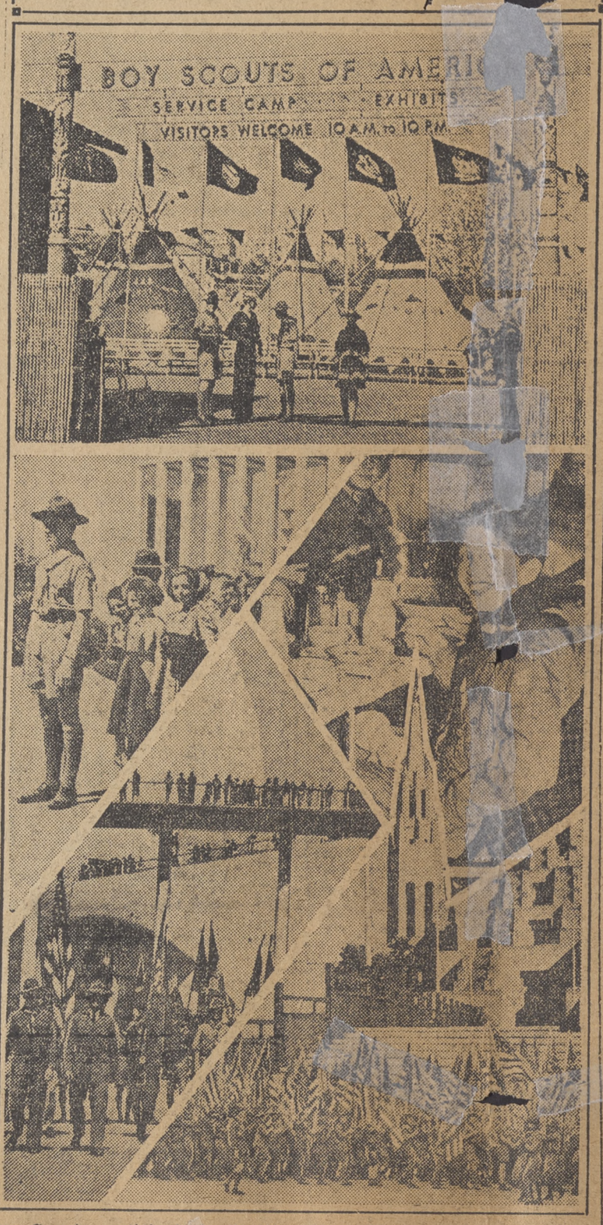
Scouts at Both Fair[illegible]ain



Boy Scouts participate in the New York World's Fair and Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco. Top view—New York World's Fair Boy Scout Service Camp. Others show Scouts at both expositions.

Boys Scouts To Participate In [illegible]rld's Fa[illegible]

The Boy [illegible]couts of America [illegible] an [illegible]tive part in the [illegible] York W[illegible]s Fair and the Gol[illegible] Gate International Exposition [illegible] San Francisco this year. The [illegible] Scouts' participation at both Fairs in 1939 was successful both from the standpoint of the boys and their leaders as well as in the judgment of the officials of the enterprises. Several from the Steuben Area Council went to the New York fair for a week of service and camping.

Once again the Movement will maintain its own Boy Scout Service Camp on a two-acre site adjacent to the Federal Building at the New York Fair. Here provisions are being made for 160 Scouts and Scouters to camp each week, living as Boy Scout Troops with their own boy and adult leaders. This represents an increase of ten more campers per week.

Thirty-two States Represented

Last year 3,804 Scouts and their leaders lived at the New York World's Fair in a tented village of their own. They came from more than 700 towns in 32 states, the District of Columbia and the Canal Zone. Their helpfulness to Fair officials and fairgoers and their conduct won praise from many quarters.

The Scouts combined their camping experience with an unsurpassed educational adventure, seeing the numerous exhibits at close range and rubbing elbows, figuratively speaking, with persons from all over the world. They became official ambassadors of the Fair itself. Upon returning home many were guests of civic organizations to whom they told of their personal experiences at the largest Fair the world has ever had.

Each Scout camper will devote about one-third of his time in some service capacity which will not compete with those seeking gainful employment. Last year the Scouts proved themselves almost indispensable as guides in assisting school teachers who visited the Fair with approximately 500,000 children during May and June. They also served as aides at the administrative office, for the National Advisory Committee, at first aid stations, in the press and treasury offices, the special events department and such exhibits as the state pavilions, Temple of Religion, Medicine and Public Health and the Children's World. They were ushers, orderlies, color guards and guards for special programs for foreign government groups.

Perhaps the greatest contribution made by them was their information to visitors, whether on or off duty. Each Scout camper was given an especially prepared map of the Fair and information that enabled him to be helpful to those seeking assistance.

Rial Recalls Tales of Oldtime Fire Fighters Here and There

The proposal to buy a new fire truck for Addison and arguments pro and con remind the writer of a story from the early days in Batavia, when volunteer fire fighters had to operate the side pumper engines by hand, like Addison had in the period of Sheriff Henry Baldwin. One particularly obstreperously acting engine in Batavia was named the Galloping Grasshopper, and it was a pretty crafty smoke eater who knew just where he was, in the air, on the ground, or midway suspended on a rafter. Rochester, you remember, had a volunteer company over forty years, the Burnupsky Fire Association, which never once answered a fire alarm. Village Fathers of Batavia in "those good old days", newspaper files reveal, gave a glass of wine to every citizen who helped to collect water buckets following a blaze. Firemen seldom request better equipment unless it is truly needed. Consider—

When fires abound and danger is nigh,
"God and the Firement!" we all cry.
But after the fire is out, and all is righted,
God is forgot—and the firemen slighted!

Addison Has the "Dam" Fever

Sherman B. Slocum a former Addison High School graduate, now proprietor of the "Miss Batavia" diner, employing some 25 people, who is active in the Junior Chamber of Commerce affairs, hears how the Canisteo River dam at Addison listed for removal, has even the inebriates gossiping water. Well, from the manner in which the Administration has been "damned" by its critics, you cannot blame it for trying to remove at least one dam!

By the way Emery Chase had better watch out, for Washington might get it into its noodle to drain Goodhue Lake, to reach the bottom of all this argument.

Enlargement Brought a Fire

For several weeks the Batavia Daily News has been undergoing enlargement to nearly double its building capacity and improvements throughout. The other evening, a painting contractor's canvases took fire and only good luck in discovery, averted a conflagration which would also have involved the Batavia Times plant nearby.

As a matter of interest, the Gannett chain of newspapers, of which the Elmira Gazette and Telegram are units, along with the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle and Times Union, made $1,300,000 profit last year, it is announced.

Couldn't "Scoop" the Weekly

The other day a paper out in Illinois, which hates like poison to be beaten on news, made this statement in its weekly edition—"As we go to press, Grandma Jones is very ill. If she dies, her funeral will be held Sunday."

Introducing of Pussy

A Batavia dancing school instructor captured the bun in-a-true-story round-up in this fashion—While she was a small girl and had a little kitten come to her home, she thought to exhibit it to a grouchy neighbor, who simply ignored her reference to "Tabby" pretending not to understand. Finally the anger of the future dancer arose and she shouted—"I've a Dod Dasted cat in my basket!"

Some "Slush" at That

The Advertiser Rambler says—"There is about three inches of slush on the City Hall sidewalk" In Buffalo they are talking about "slush" at the City Hall the year round.

Easy Show For Corning

"Gone With The Wind" movie production requires about four hours' time to complete, which tires many observers, but not in Corning, where the glass blowers are long winded.

What Red-Head Had Seen

A Batavia cop spied a red-headed woman parking her car in front of a Jackson street fire hydrant. "Oh, madam," he expostulated, "you cannot park there," whereupon she snapped back, "Don't kid me," then smiled in triumph, "I have seen the firemen do it!"

Confucius Dips In

On one of his off days, Confucius made a slip and told a gullible Corning Leader reporter that "a millennium is something like a centennial, only it has more legs."

Welfare Jobs to Be Placed Under Civil Service

Albany, March 6—More than 1,000 welfare jobs in 44 counties and one up-state township in the state will be placed under Civil Servce through competitive examinations which, however, will give special consideration for experience to incumbents in those jobs.

The move, announced by the State Civil Service Commission, is in response to the United States Social Security Board's insistence upon merit system selection of all welfare workers engaged in public assistance for which the federal government makes part payment.

Announcement of the move, involving examinations to be held about October 1 of this year, was made at a meeting of local public welfare officials here last night by Miss Grace Reavy, president of the Civil Service Commission, and Howard P. Jones, a member of the Commission.

A pledge that the State Department of Social Welfare will do everything it can through organization of special classes and courses to aid present incumbents in the localities to fit themselves for the Civil Service examinations was made at the meeting by David C. Adie, Commissioner of Social Welfare.

City and county commissioners of welfare and their deputies, as well as directors of boards of child welfare, will not come under the civil service regulations, Commissioner Adie declared, nor will town welfare officers who handle only home relief for which the federal government does not reimburse.

Perry—Milton Phinney, 33, former resident, has been appointed city editor of the Los Angeles Daily News.

Knapp Seeks D.A. Office if King Resigns in Time

Bath — Wilbur F. Knapp, well-known Bath and Steuben County Attorney, has announced that he would be a candidate for the office of District Atttorney in the event that George A. King of Corning resigned the position before the primary election in September. District Attorney King recently announced intentions of seeking the office of County Judge to succeed Edwin S. Brown who will retire at the end of the year.

The following statement was made by Mr. Knapp in connection with his announcement: "For the past several months I have been urged by political leaders and civic minded people of Steuben County to seek the office of District Attorney when and if such office was open. I reached my decision to enter the primary should Mr. King resign, only after giving the matter careful consideration and discussing the move with Republican leaders. If Mr. King resigns in sufficient time to allow for a primary nomination, I shall enter that primary for the Republican nomination. The support which was given me in my last campaign for the office in 1936 was indeed gratifying and I trust that my intentions to again seek the office will meet with the approval of the voting public."

Mr. Knapp is well known through out Western New York as a qualified trial lawyer and one well fitted for the office of District Attorney. A life-long Republican, the Bath attorney is active in the support of its principles and is a member of the County Republican Committee. He is a member of the Steuben County Bar Association, Grange, president Bath Bar Association, Bath Chamber of Commerce, past president Bath Rotary, Lodge of Elks, Country Club and other civic and fraternal organizations.

In connection with his legal practice Mr. Knapp has made an extensive study of law enforcement methods and is considered throughout Western New York as an authority on The Lie Detector, one of the latest devices of scientific crime prevention.

Observers expect that District Attorney King will resign in order to avoid giving Democratic Governor Herbert H. Lehman the opportunity to appoint a successor. Friends of Knapp point out that in 1936 Mr. Knapp opposed the present District Attorney for the nomination, but was defeated by only a small majority thereby making him the logical successor to Mr. King. "Such suport, "they claim", makes Mr. Knapp an asset to the Republican party and is an outward display of confidence in his ability."

Steuben's CMTC Allotment is 36

New York, March 11 —..Allotment of procurement quotas to each county in the Second Corps Area, comprising the States of New York, New Jersey and Delaware, to assure equal advantage to all youthful residents between the ages of 17 and 24, who seek a place in this Summer's Citizens' Military Training Camps, was announced today by Lieutenant General Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the Army's Second Corps Area, from his headquarters on Governor's Island.

In previous years more than twice as many young men as could be accepted, have clamored for admittance to the popular summer encampments. The system of county quotas, based on proportional population, will reserve the allotted camp vacancies within each county until April 1. Steuben County is entitled to a quota of 36.

Successful candidates will be rewarded with thirty days of outdoor life at Government expense, including transportation to camp and return, wholesome food, athletic equipment, laundry service, uniforms and medical attention. There is no obligation for further military service.

From July 5 to August 3, Basic and Advanced Infantry students will train at Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., Fort Niagara, N. Y. and Fort Dix N. J., where the Advanced Signal Corps candidates will undergo training at the same dates. Advanced Coast Artillery students will train at Fort Hancock, N. J., and Advanced Field Artillery students will train at Pine Plains, Great Bend, N. Y.

Committees of public-spirited citizens in each county are actively assisting local young men to qualify for the C. M. T. Camps. County chairmen have issued warnings to youths to apply at once to those desiring to attend this year's camps.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Advertiser,

If I may, I would like to use some of your valuable space to state a few facts and figures relative to the new fire truck proposition, which is to be voted upon at the Village Election Tuesday, March 19 and try to explain whiy it is vital that this ... position should be carried.

It is for the benefit and protection of every property owner in the Village of Addison. In the first place your fire insurance rate at the present time is the lowest it can possibly be under a Volunteer Fire Department. The reason for this low rate is based on fire equipment. The rate was lowered 15 years ago, when the present piece of apparatus, to be replaced, was purchased. By voting "yes" on the proposition, means your fire insurance rate will remain where it is. By voting "no" on the proposition means that in a year or so you will be paying the same rate of insurance you were paying 15 years ago.

As I tried to explain last week in my letter, the present truck is in such condition that it is liable to completely give out at any minute and when it does, there is no way to repair it as the company from whom it was purchased has gone out of business. It is almost impossible to secure parts for repairs. Even if these parts can be secured, it is only a matter of time until something else gives out and then more repairs.

At the time this proposition was suggested it was agreed to ask for a sum not to exceed $4,500. Since then it has been learned that this amount will not ... excess of $3,500. This Week in Sports—

Based on the weather this season the basketball season could have been lengthened a few weeks and the baseball season shortened for high school players. But then the State Department would not let the boys play too many games. But I still think the season could have been lengthened.

Each year the Chamber of Commerce of Glens Falls sponsors a basketball tourney which attracts some of the outstanding high school teams of the east. The event is scheduled in the armory there March 28 to 30 inclusive. Teams from Greenbier Military School, Virginia, LaSalle Military Academy of Long Island, Seton Hall Prep School of South Orange, N. J., Trenton High, Memorial High of West New York, Salem, Mass., High, Durham, N. C. High, St. Vincent de Paul High of Syracuse and many others. Some real basketball is seen at these tournaments which are broadcast with nationally known announcers at the "mike".

Penn State boxers have the eastern collegiate boxing title "in the bag" for they won seven of 16 classes with the other nine being divided between three other colleges, which makes it hard for Army, Cornell and Syracuse to catch up with the Nittany Lions.

CHAPTER CHATTER

Students in Agriculture in the Addison High School are studying swine this week. They have learned some of the problems of caring for hogs and some reasons why prices are high for pork. They discovered the fact that feeding boughten grains to a certain extent causes loss to the producer and found it was a problem of care and management.

Breeds of Swine

Many people find it difficult to tell the different breeds of swine. The following method is a very successful aid to tell the breeds. Chester White and Yorkshire are solid white in color. The Chester White has drooping ears. The Yorkshire has erect ears. The Berkshire and Poland China are black with white prints. The Berkshire has erect ears and the Poland China has drooping ears. The Spotted Poland China has much more white and the Poland China. The Duroc Jersey and the Tamsworth are red.

The Tamsworth has a longer snout than the Duroc Jersey and has erect ears. The Duroc Jersey has drooping ears. The Hampshire can be told most easily because of their belt around the shoulders and front legs and they have erect ears.

There are two types of Swine, the land type and the bacon type. the lard type and the bacon type. Jersey, Poland China, Chester White, Hampshire and Berkshire and the Spotted Poland China. Yorkshire and Tamsworth are bacon types.

Why Swine Are Dirty.

Many people consider Swine the dirtiest animal on the farm because they wallow in the mud on hot days. There is a good reason for this which is not considered by most people. The hog has no sweat glands in his body to keep him cool and wallowing in the mud is the best way for him. If hogs have the proper place in which to stay they will be very clean. People who keep Swine in dark and damp quarters, without proper sanitation and bedding are more to blame for the dirtiness of pigs than pigs [illegible] themselves.

Swine mu[illegible] tion comp[illegible] mins and [illegible] some sup[illegible] be kept [illegible] changed [illegible] too expe[illegible] rations fo[illegible] weighing [illegible] corn, 73 po[illegible] meal, seven [illegible] five pounds; [illegible] swine fed wit[illegible] ing from 50 t[illegible] 67 pounds; tanka[illegible] eight pounds; linseed meal, five pounds; oats, 15 pounds and chopped alfalfa hay, five pounds.

Pasture For Swine

Few people realize that swine need pasture just like cows do. In the summer the hogs will eat grass and get along, with very few concentrates. In the winter the hog growers of the north eastern part find it satisfactory to feed grass silage where available and little grain. It is very inexpensive to raise hogs this way. While the swine are on pasture they obtain minerals, vitamins they otherwise would lack. When pigs have pasture and grow more rapidly and are healthier at very little cost. Pigs and sows are often kept on pasture with no other feed. Alfalfa is used as a pasture. What is not used for pasture can be cut for hay. Rye, peas, oats and soy beans are used for pasture. These have to be planted yearly while alfalfa does not.

Minerals For Hogs

Some people think that hogs do not need minerals in their rations. Pigs especially need iron in their ration. If iron is not present anemia will result. If the pigs have access to a good pasture of clover, alfalfa or rape minerals will not have to be added.

The mixture below may be added to the grain ration with two pounds of minerals to 100 pounds of feed. Ground limestone 40 pounds, steamed bone meal 40 pounds and common salt 20 pounds also makes good mineral ration. This will want to be kept before the pigs in boxes most of the time when not in the pasture.

Farrowing

Many pigs are lost at farrowing time because not enough attention is given to the sow and pigs. The following are some things to keep in mind.

The young should farrow when about one year of age. The gestation period of sows is three months three weeks and three days.

The farrowing pen should be 8 x 10 x 8 feet. This should have a guard rail around it about six to eight inches from the floor to protect the little pig[illegible]

In the winter [illegible]ld have plenty of exercis[illegible]der to do this the trough sh[illegible] be 100 feet from the pen.

They should have al[illegible]wo litters a year. One in [illegible]sh and the other about Sept[illegible] 15 to 20.

Feeding the Pregnant Sow

The thin sow needs about one pound of feed daily a bred of gilt 1.6 to 1.7 pounds daily for each 100 pounds of live weight.

They should have access to alfalfa hay or other legume hay. The unbred should not be allowed to become fat. The concentrates can be fed in a thick slop during cold weather to prevent the freezing of water.

The sow in summer time should be in good pasture. The house should be kept dry and clean. They should have access to drinking water.

The feed should be [illegible]ced before farrowing about t[illegible]hirds to three quarters of the [illegible] amount.

At farrowing time the sow should be watched and the navel of the young pigs should be dipped in iodine right after birth. The pigs should be kept warm and allowed to nurse.

The sow should have no grain for the first 12 to 24 [illegible]urs, just water. Two weeks later for a 400 pound sow 8 to 12 pounds of grain daily.

Feeding the Little Pigs

While the little pigs are nursing from the sow, they should be allowed to have all the exercise they want. If they are not allowed to have exercise they may get fat or their legs may become stiff and might result in death.

After the little pigs are about three to four weeks old they should receive a little grain to eat as well as milk from the sow.

When the pigs are eight weeks of age, they should be weaned. If the young pigs are to run with the older hogs, a creep should be made when the pigs are three to four weeks old to keep the older hogs away from the young while they are eating. This creep should be built just high enough from the ground to permit only the young to go in and eat or slats may be just wide enough to let the pigs go through and eat. By using the creep the little ones can have what they want to eat. Whereas, if there were not a creep, the older hogs would be getting more than their share and the little ones would have to go without.

The young pigs should start to eat out of a trough early, three to four weeks old, s[illegible] won't get set back. If th[illegible] properly [illegible]75 to [illegible] months [illegible] market [illegible]r the [illegible]e they [illegible] rings [illegible]at the [illegible]s do [illegible]ll.
